Summary

HerStory project will on the one hand, tackle the gender stereotypes that keep women away from decision-making bodies, whether in politics and social life or work, while at the same time it will promote role models operating as an empowerment tool for girls and women.

The aim of the HerStory project is to highlight the footprint of women in history in cities across Europe.

About the project

Historiography lacks basic information about women's action in history. As the mainstream literature on women's history is limited, their contribution to society and the struggles for women's rights are more likely invisible.

Recognizing the achievements of women in all facets of life has a huge impact on the development of self-respect and new opportunities for girls and young women.

Main objectives

The project's specific aims include:

- Create new mechanisms to raise awareness on challenging gender stereotypes through lens of history.
- Reinforce role models which are crucial in the encouragement of women to occupy leadership positions both in labour market and decision making.
- Empower girls and women, while promoting positive messages and portrayals of gender equality to encourage behavioural change in the society.

Project results

HerStory aims to develop a transnational map that will feature important women in politics and society as well as in sciences and the arts while bringing to light important historical moments in which women's action was determinant.

Expected project results are:

- In depth research and mapping local women histories.
- Development of HerStory Map, Online Platform and Mobile App.
- Exploring HerStory Map - Learning and Training Activities Implementation.
